

King wishes all cops Happy 214th Police Day

KUALA LUMPUR: The King has expressed his highest appreciation to all police personnel for their services, commitment and sacrifices in ensuring that sovereignty, national security and public order are continuously safeguarded and maintained.

Yang di-Pertuan Agong Al-Sultan Abdullah Ri'ayatuddin Al-Mustafa

Billah Shah said this as he wished a Happy 214th Police day to all dedicated police officers nationwide, including veterans and retirees.

"His Majesty also expressed his gratitude and pride towards the police force for having worked tirelessly as frontliners in combating the Covid-19 pandemic since last year.

"May all police officers and personnel continue to remain strong and enthusiastic in safeguarding the sovereignty, security and well-being of the people and the country," according to the statement on Istana Negara's official Facebook page yesterday.

In the statement, the Yang di-Pertuan Agong also prayed for all police officers to be continuously blessed and protected by Allah from all forms of threat and calamity, and for all their fallen heroes to be placed among the righteous.

Meanwhile, Datuk Seri Dr Wee Ka Siong said the services and the sacrifices of the Royal Malaysia Police would always be remembered.

"Wherever you are, you are our country's hero," said the Transport Minister in his tribute to the police force.

"Additionally, whether you are still serving or have retired, your services and sacrifices are huge and will always be remembered," he said in a Facebook post.

Dr Wee, who is MCA president, added that the police force and society could not be separated.
